United Fund Day Camp Successful

Six hundred and eighty-nine including 53 from the Retarded Childrens' Association, was the number registered for the United Fund Day Camp, a program conducted for the first time by the United Fund at the request of the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational Technical High school.

The United Fund provided the allocation and campers were provided by the International Institute, the Boys' Club, the Anti-Poverty Council, the Y.M.C.A., and Y.W.C.A. and the public agencies in the city and the three towns. The staff at the Andover Y.M.C.A. without cost provided direction for the program.

Each camper paid a $1.00 registration fee and 25¢ a day for lunch if they could afford it.

A complete, detailed report will be provided for the United Fund and the Vocational School by the agencies participating and development of any future programs will be based on this report.

Schools Prepare For Reopening

Registration of new students will be taking place in Andover schools during the final week of August and early September in preparation for the reopening of schools on Thursday, Sept. 4.

Teachers will report on Tuesday, Sept. 2, for two days of preparation for the resumption of classes.

Thousands of Andover children will be enjoying the final full week of the summer vacation next week. This will be followed by the Labor Day holiday on Monday, Sept. 1, and preparation for returning to school for the 1967-70 academic year.

Nearly 6,000 children are scheduled to be enrolled in public schools in Andover during the year. The number scheduled to be enrolled is 5,914, but this figure is expected to vary by Oct. 1 when the official school census is taken.

Some 4,000 others will be enrolled in private and parochial schools here during the year.

Andover's new superintendent of schools, Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert is busy at his office in the Central School preparing for the new school year. Dr. Seifert took over this month from former superintendent Edward I. Erickson who retired and is now on vacation.

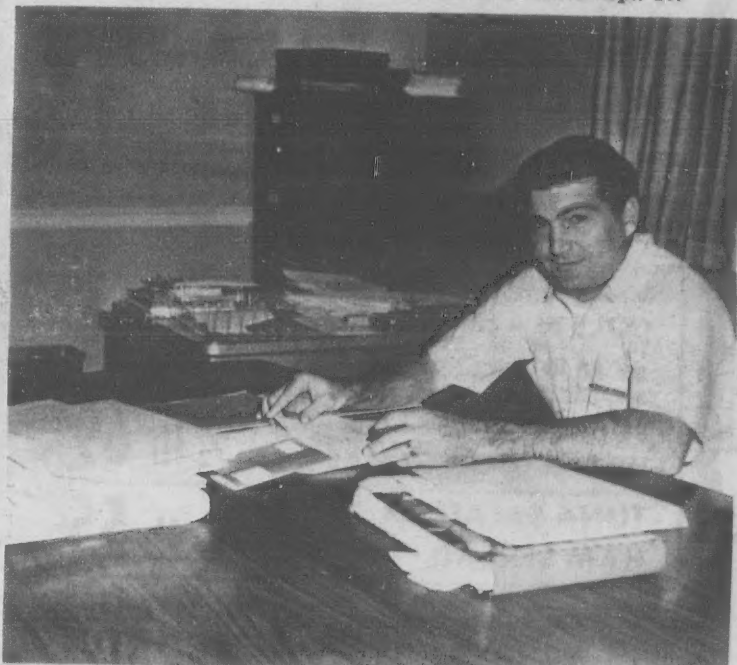

School principals and their assistants have been busy during the week scheduling registration dates and preparing homeroom rosters.

St. Augustine's parochial school will resume classes on Sept. 4, the same day as the public schools.

Phillips Andover will resume classes on Sept. 19 while Abbot students will return on Sept. 16.

Pike school pupils will return on Sept. 10 while the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational Technical high school in Andover will begin the fall term on Wednesday, Sept. 3.

Merrimack College students will return to school on Sept. 10.

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert goes over paper work in preparation for the opening of school on Sept. 4. Dr. Seifert succeeds Edward I. Erickson who retired this month. (Cole)

Dr. McCarthy A Fixture At Tufts

Dr. Kathryn Anne McCarthy of Andover, professor of physics, at Tufts University, Medford, has that human touch that reaches out. She was never one to shirk responsibility and so it is not at all surprising that on September 1 she will become the first woman dean of Tufts University's Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

She considers Andover her home and returns as often as possible. Perhaps Tufts can be considered an adopted kinship, growing up and ripening over the past 27 years.

Even her office bespeaks her personalized attention - two wall posters by Miro enlighten a gray wall, a large yellow paper flower sprouts out of a stacked bookcase, there sits a cushioned chair for a visitor's easy comfort. She smiles easily but always for a reason. The look of academic order is not diminished, merely humanized.

This is her home base at Tufts, but her real domain is the solid state physics labs in the basement of Robinson. In her estimation, this is where the real work and real teaching is done.

"We are very close to the technological world in this field of applied physics. I'm a physicist who teaches and does research."

She has been both a student and a teacher at Tufts; entering under the accelerated World War II program, she graduated with an A.B. in mathematics in 1944 at the age of 19 and in 1946 received her master's in Physics.

Since 1946 she has been a Tufts faculty member, with brief departures into industry and time-outs toward her Ph.D. in applied physics, which she received from Radcliffe in 1957.

Viewing Tufts from both vantage points during the past 27 years, Kathryn McCarthy verifies that the scope of courses has widened with more and more opportunities developing for independent study. "I think Dr. Hallowell and the new administration are responsible for the new direction."

Dr. McCarthy recently participated in an Experimental College course in which a freshman, an upperclassman and a faculty member got together to study a subject of their own choosing, thereby providing the personal attention freshmen need.

"Something like this has to happen sort of naturally. In this case one of my students approached me about the idea," she stated. "You need to have a certain rapport with students, while not trying to be a folksy buddy."

She attests that the new flexibility in majors has always been evident in the sciences, one reason being that there are so many new directions to take.

As an activated member of the physics department, Prof. McCarthy was responsible for initiating the Applied Physics Major's program a few years ago, incorporating engineering and physics courses into a new major.

One student cited the time she spent with him, designing his own schedule of courses, befitting his interests. "She was not my assigned adviser, but she took the time to help me out."

Another states, "She will go out of her way to help students beyond course work."

"She is extremely calm and well organized. You've got to be precise in physics. Sometimes it takes a lot longer, but she likes to let students come up with the answers themselves."

Each professor has his or her own set of lecturing idiosyncrasies.

One student recalls with knowing amusement that she has the habit of sometimes gazing out the window when she is completely absorbed in what she is saying in a class lecture. There are other times when she may ask a question which no one can answer. There follows a long silence - not a one or two second wait but more like a minute or two - then a hint of a smile frames her explanation.

Another attests that when she speaks about her experiments in crystal growing, it is with evident enthusiasm. Growing crystals out of salt, or "physics sculpture," is related to her involvement in thermo-conductivity research for studying property changes at low temperatures.

Her colleagues corroborate evidence that she is more than a physics professor. "There should be more faculty members like Kathryn McCarthy. She's always got time to see students and alumni. She does a lot of committee work and engages in a great deal more - all cheerfully without giving the impression of being busy."

It is said that she is a baseball fan and may be seen as a spectator at Fenway or as an organizer and player in the Faculty/Jackson softball game. Tennis is also somewhere in the running for her time.

She has a string of committee appointments and was one of the ten faculty members and seven administrators who compiled the recently released Long Range Planning Committee Report.

"In my mind the existence of such a committee is more important than the Report. You have to accept the fact that, with all committee members having to approve it, the Report is an understatement."

She is also a member of the Educational Policy Committee and will be pushing for a VISTA Cooperative program, with hopes that eventually federal scholarship grants will be given for this form of government service by students.

"The university cannot separate itself from society. Young people want to affect change and are frustrated because they don't know how to go about it. With programs like VISTA, they can get involved while in colleges, instead of waiting until they get out," she stated.

"Tufts is no longer the little haven it once was. You've got to buy a new kind of Tufts and substantiate why it is better. If it hadn't changed - broadened - I'm sure I wouldn't have stayed."

Last spring Prof. McCarthy pinched for Provost Al Ullman at a Parents Weekend in Chicago. She contends that parents are easier to talk to than are alumni. "Basically, parents want to believe the best about their children."

Addressing herself to the ROTC question, she offers a fresh alternative.

"I think the present form of ROTC is simply out of place on a campus, although the opportunity to be in ROTC is the choice a student should have. My notion is that, just as we're proposing a Tufts VISTA, there could be a Tufts Navy ROTC Cooperative Program, with military instruction at a nearby naval base."

When hunting for a house, you may find more than one you like.

How does the householder determine a suitable area? What should you look for?

Here are some questions to ask yourself when determining the right neighborhood for you:

What kind of social life do you like? Do you prefer group activities or comparative solitude? Will you be seeking friends among your neighbors? Consider whether your likes and interests are compatible with the atmosphere of the neighborhood.

Are you a person who likes a busy life with community activity? Then you might prefer a suburban community. Children almost always find playmates in suburban areas.

Do you prefer an individualistic way of life? Then an older house in an established community may probably prove best for you. These houses are also usually closer to theatres and museums.

Your Realtor has houses of all types and sizes in many different locations. Consult with him when you are ready to consider your next residence.

A man of formidable energy, enthusiasm and acumen, Vollard has been called "a genius at discovering geniuses." Friend and patron of the revolutionary Post Impressionist masters when other dealers and collectors scorned them, Vollard left in his graphic publications a remarkable document of the Paris art movements which have colored so much of later 20th century art.

Originally a dealer in paintings, Vollard mounted Cezanne's first one-man show in 1895. He promoted and supported the careers of many great painters and grew wealthy himself through his shrewd picture dealing, but the sale of paintings was always a means to an end. For 45 years he spent all he made on his first love, the publication of superb prints and books. Probably no other individual has had so much influence on the development of 20th century printmaking.

Among Vollard's portfolios, three (one unfinished) called Albums des Peintres-Gravures are comprehensive collections of prints by painters working in Paris at the end of the century. Included in the exhibition from these portfolios are works of Redon, Chagall, Puvis de Chavannes, Toulouse-Lautrec, Vuillard, Bonnard, Signac and two of only seven prints ever made by Cezanne.

Vollard also published portfolios of prints by individual artists.
Among those exhibited are selections from the celebrated "Vol-lard Suite" of Picasso, including three portraits of Vollard himself; Edouard Vuillard's delicately colored and patterned lithographs of Paris interiors; and brooding, dream-like black and white lithographs by Odilon Redon from a series on the Apocalypse of St. John.

From 1900 until his death in 1939, Vollard devoted himself to the production of exquisitely illustrated books. The selection of author and illustrator was Vol-lard's, but he left the artist entirely alone to interpret the text in his own way. Among the authors Vollard chose were Verlaine, Baudelaire, Balzac, Gogol and Homer;
among the artist-illustrators Dufy, Chagall, Bonnard and Emile Bernard.

the bride wore a Victorian gown ters of stephanotis entwined with seed pearls and looped silk organza held her double tiered veil.

She carried a Colonial bouquet of white daisy pompons, miniature

Miss Francene St. John of Nimmonsburg, N.Y., the maid of honor, wore a sleeveless gown of maize

Andover, Miss Isobel Leslie of Philadelphia, Pa. and Mrs. Robert Randall of Denver, Colo.

Anthony Sapienza was best man

James Munroe and Nick Wilder of North Andover.

An outdoor reception was held at the home of the bride. The couple
They will reside at 220D Pine St.,

Stearns Hall features a one-third scale lunar module, models of rockets and space capsules, and exhibits of heat-shield material, space food, filter equipment used in tests for micro-organisms, and other equipment in Apollo 11.

The hall on the basement level is also the center for demonstrations on such Apollo-related topics as the effect of extreme temperature and the use of the gyroscope in the guidance and navigation system.

Color TV sets, loaned to the Museum by EASTCO, Westwood, have been an additional attraction in showing important highlights of the lunar mission. TV will be turned on again when the astronauts are released from quarantine and at special events held in their honor.

The library and the Charles Hayden Planetarium also offer exhibits on the subject. Color films are shown in Robb Hall at intervals during the day.

ber was indeed sorry to learn of Mr. Horan's decision to leave his present position.

He stated that under Mr. Horan's leadership during the past 3 1/2 years, the Greater Lawrence Chamber had taken many steps toward improving its organizational abilities and effectiveness and in its involvement in solving community development problems. "Justin Horan's drive and persistence has been one of the major factors which has resulted in our Chamber achievements during the past three years. His many friends in the Greater Lawrence area will long remember him for the many meaningful contributions which he has made to our community and our Chamber."

Mr. and Mrs. Horan presently reside with their eight children at 65 Cross Street, in West Andover and present plans call for the family to join Mr. Horan in Waterbury during the month of October.

Corn At Mid-Season Peak

The native corn season hits a welcome mid-season peak, with an excellent supply of uniformly sweet-kernelled varieties on hand at money saving prices, according to the Mass. Dept of Agriculture in releasing the week's "Best Buys" in native produce. As corn prices drop, so do the prices of green beans, cabbage, and recent newcomers on the market like California Wonder peppers and Italian Fry peppers. Red Gravenstein apples and Early McIntosh add native zest to fruit counters.

Bay state farmers are coming to the aid of hard pressed homemaker budgets this week, sending a very long list of vegetables to market, giving homemakers the widest possible choices for salads and nutritious side dishes. Native eggplant is abundant and economical and makes an excellent substitute in a variety of "meat" dishes. Vegetables in good supply and prices ranging from low to reasonable include beets, cucumbers, chicory, carrots, escarole, parsley, radishes, scallions, several varieties of squash--buttercup, Delicious, yellow, turban and zucchini--and a good showing of native lettuce. Native blueberries are abundant with many farmers inviting self service for pickers. Outdoor trellis tomatoes are abundant and economical as are collards, kale, Swiss Chard and greenhouse watercress. Parsnips and acorn squash are just around the corner. Eggs are low priced with extra large the biggest money saver. Eggplant Parmesan is a surprisingly hefty "meaty" goodness for budget minded menu makers.

Paré 1 large eggplant, cut in 1/4" slices. Fry both sides in oil until brown and drain well on absorbent paper. Put layer of eggplant slices in shallow baking dish and cover with 1 1/2 cups canned tomato sauce, a good dash of Parmesan cheese and a few slices of Mozzarella cheese. Repeat layers until all ingredients including 3/4 cup olive oil, 1/4 cup grated Parmesan and 1/2 lb. Mozzarella cheese are used up, ending with Mozzarella. Bake at 400 degrees F. 15 minutes. Serves 4.

AGRI-FACT: Cows that have a sufficient ration of vitamin E in their forage yield a better flavor milk than those that do not. Slightly off or "oxidized" milk flavor may be the cows way of expressing a need for vitamin E.

Quartet In Jamboree

This weekend at the Barber Shop Jamboree at Alton Bay on the shores of Lake Winnepesaukee, a local Quartet made their first appearance before an audience consisting of Barber Shoppers from as far as Norfolk, Va. and Columbus, Ohio.

The Quartet known as the "Worth While Waiting Four" is a group that has been formed as part of the Greater Lawrence Chapter of the Society for the Preservation & Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc. (SPEBSQSA). Members include George McCracken of Lawrence singing lead; Doug Townsend of Tewksbury, bass; Guy Lachapelle of Reading, tenor; and Carl D'Angio of Reading, baritone. The quartet is being coached by Charles Gallagher of Lowell.

The jamboree, an annual affair, sponsored by the Norwich, Conn. Chapter featured the international Barbershop Quartet Champions, the "4 Statesmen", on the Saturday evening show. The proceeds of the show this year were presented to the hospital in the Lakes Region.

Other summer activities of the Society include a weekend of Harmony at Hampton Beach starting Aug. 15 sponsored by the Nashua

Chapter and a Golf Open sponsored by the Worcester Chapter.

The Greater Lawrence Chapter meets every Monday evening at the Free Christian Church, Elm Street, and invites men in the area who enjoy singing to drop in to visit.

Information, Please

Although more than two weeks have passed since it was first announced that Andover was to have a new post office building, little information has been supplied to local officials.

Chairman Robert A. Watters of the board of selectmen sent a letter to Congressman F. Bradford Morse at the end of last week asking some details of the new facility.

Chairman Watters is anxious that federal authorities confer with town officials concerning the site of the new post office as well as the manner in which it will be financed.

If the post office is erected by private funds and leased to the federal government, Andover will be able to collect taxes. If it is federally owned structure, it will be tax free.

In his letter to Congressman Morse, Chairman Watters wrote: "We do not know whether or not a definite site has been chosen and we trust that, before the decision is made, the federal authorities will be in touch with the board of selectmen so that we may have an opportunity to make our views known."

"Also, and perhaps more important, I urgently request that you do everything possible to have the proposed new facility built by a private contractor and then leased to the government so that there will be some tax return to the Town of Andover."

Chairman Watters' letter to Congressman Morse has at least served to put the town fathers on record as to the town's desire for some tax return from the new post office building.

But whether or not it's due to the vacation season in the nation's capital, there is very little information forthcoming as to where and when Andover's new post office will be erected.

Housing In The Suburbs

The new low and moderate income housing law which has been approved by the house and senate appears to be another step away from home rule.

Under terms of the legislation, local zoning restrictions can be overridden in order to allow construction of housing for families of low and moderate incomes.

The bill would allow public and non-profit organizations to build housing in communities where not more than 10 per cent of the total housing or sites are of the low and moderate income type.

The Department of Community Affairs would have final determination as to whether a bid to construct the housing in a suburban community was in the best interest of the community.

Senator David H. Locke, Wellesley Republican, was the lone member of the upper branch who opposed the bill.

Locke said that the legislation would provide for the redistribution of the city ghetto into suburbia. He added that the bill would allow abuses on the part of some builders.

Locke's arguments failed to influence his colleagues and the bill was passed on a voice vote. Senator Oliver F. Ames, Republican representing Boston's Back Bay pointed out that the bill provided for limited dividend and non-profit housing in answering Locke's opposition to the measure.

How soon and to what extent housing projects for low and moderate incomes families will be erected in the suburbs remains to be seen.

Home building in the suburbs has been going on at a rapid pace in recent years and building sites in most towns are hard to acquire, especially those where public utilities are available.

Supporters of the new housing measure no doubt were well inclined. How the law will work out in practice is another matter which only the future will determine.

Speaker Has Influence

House Speaker David M. Bartley appears to be winning his battle to keep the House membership at 240 as at present despite the active campaign carried on by the League of Women Voters and other interested parties.

In the last legislature, there were 85 members who favored reducing the house membership to 160. In order for the question to be put on the ballot as a referendum a total of 70 legislators would have to be in favor.

But Bartley's campaign seems to be shrinking the number of those in favor of the house cut. Beacon Hill observers feel that when the House and Senate meet in joint session next year less than the required 70 votes will be recorded.

Bartley contends that cutting the size of the house would be taking government further away from the people. He feels that with fewer legislators, the lobbyists representing special interest groups would have a much easier time influencing legislation.

Those favoring a reduction in the size of the House will not give up the fight very easily. A lot of work has been done in the past and it is certain that the effort will be a continuing one in the future despite any setbacks along the way.

Raytheon Company has announced receipt of a contract by Badger (France) from Total-Chimie to construct an aromatic unit at Gonfreville l'Orcher in France.

The new plant, which will produce high purity xylenes from reformate feed supplied by an adjacent C.F.R. refinery, will be one of the first elements in Total-Chimie's new complex.

The design and construction work will be performed by Badger (France), a unit of The Badger Company, Inc., a Raytheon subsidiary headquartered in Cambridge.

A house break on Reservation Road was reported to Andover police on Monday.

Harvey Davis, 32 Reservation Road, said that the family left for the weekend Saturday noon and returned at 9 p.m. Sunday and found the home had been entered. A pane of glass on a breezeway door was broken and the latch opened.

Entertainment equipment and a .22 calibre rifle were stolen police were informed.

Thermostats are something new for home or office heating systems?

Hardly. From the 1894 TOWNSMAN comes word that telethermometers have been installed in the Merrimack school in North Andover, to inform the janitor in the boiler room of the temperature of the various rooms.

Not quite the automatic controls as we know them today, but a check of the device 75 years ago would have indicated whether another shovel or two of coal was necessary to keep the young scholars comfortable.

Tribute will be paid to the late Congressman William Bates of Salem who served in the Sixth Congressional district for many years, at the opening of the Topsfield Fair, Saturday, Aug. 30.

Congressman Bates, who traditionally opened the fair during his 17 years in office, will be honored by the presentation of a plaque commemorating his contributions to the fair. Members of his family have been invited to attend and a Navy band will play.

The late congressman presided over the flag raising and opening day ceremonies since being elected to the position succeeding his father George J. Bates.

As the summer reaches its peak along with the flowering of annuals and perennials in August, it is difficult to imagine that next month we may have frost. With 90 degree days of August it's hard to believe it can get cold enough to kill garden flowers in less than eight weeks, but the average date of the first killing frost in much of Essex County is Sept. 20.

The Internal Revenue does have a heart.

In Pennsylvania last week a youngster asked her father for a pony. He said he could not get one because of all the taxes he had to pay, so the young lady sat down and wrote to IRS.

Father still has to pay his taxes, but employees of IRS dug in and bought an eight-year-old pony for the youngster.

What Our Readers Say-

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN
That glass decision against the town, will cause many citizens to wonder. The new school, the Bancroft, has one redeeming characteristic, no glass to splinter. What an opportunity for someone to plan a school, after the round towers of former days. What a help they would be to cut down expenses. No corridors to create a disturbance. No glass to splinter. No drapes needed to gather dust, and last but not least the maintenance would be cut to a minimum and of course there would be exercise minus the gym. Taxes would be reduced and the scholars would learn just as well, and maybe better because of the lack of distraction of outside views.

There would be no chairs and etc. thrown out of the windows. Why haven't we thought of these many brain saving methods before the glass hot-houses, called schools.

The Bancroft building doesn't look so badly, now that it is finished and in good satisfactory working order. Everybody seems to be happy and content with all of its shortcomings such as lack of confusion, lack of disorders, lack of a heavy budget for maintenance. If you haven't seen Bancroft school, do so, and you will be converted as I was to a completely satisfied citizen. I do hope the Round Tower idea will catch on and we will be the first town to sing Halleluia--for at last having some sanity building future school building.

It is extremely difficult to put into words my sorrow and bereavement at the loss of my son, Warren C. Deyermund, who was killed in battle in Vietnam on July 14, 1969. It is also difficult to express my appreciation to all of his friends and the many who shared my grief.

To all who honored my son during the funeral services, I can only say, I will be forever grateful for their sympathy and their tribute to my son, who gave his life for his Country.

Andover Girl Camps Under Wyoming Skies

(Editor's Note: Our youngest reporter, Beth Black, wrote the following commentary from Ten Sleep, Wyoming, while she was attending an All-States Rendezvous at the Girl Scout National Center.

Our Western correspondent, in addition to descriptively relating her experiences in early August, also sent along physical evidence of her being there, with a sample of a baby desert cactus, quite gingerly examined, per instructions from Beth.)

By Beth Black

Hi! Well here I am--out in the boondocks of Wyoming, miles and miles from anywhere! I'm not complaining, I'm bragging. It's absolutely beautiful! We left Boston about 1:00 last Wednesday and arrived here Thursday about 7:30 p.m. Traveled by two planes, a limosine, a train (that was wild) and a bus.

We met many other girls along the way--from Virginia, Minnesota, Washington, D.C., Seattle, Washington, North Dakota, Wisconsin, New Hampshire, Vermont and Michigan.

We had sing-alongs and discussions and just plain fun. The girls are terrific. We all enjoyed the traveling; but the first take-off made us all a little queasy.

Now I'm here at Camp. The scenery is marvelous--high mesas, plateaus, red, red, soil, desert cactus, sagebrush, and beautiful rock formations. We're situated 17 miles from Ten Sleep, Wyoming at the new Girl Scout National Center West. It's 15,000 acres of God's most lovely handiwork. We are right near Ten Sleep Canyon and have hiked down several times. One day we spent 8 hours down there exploring, singing and marvelling at the view. We forded the same stream thirty-four times! My borrowed Army boots were drenched.

We also went looking for arrow-head chips one day. Several of us found some small ones. Our adviser took us looking for geodes. Geodes are round sandstones with white crystals inside. We spent over four hours hammering every round stone in sight. Nancy Sadlier (Lowell) found a really nice one, but each of us got a little chunk at last.

Our patrol formed a kazoo band and we have gone around serenading the other troops. It's fun.

We've seen several rattlesnakes but no one has been bitten. You can hear the rattle a mile away practically. I had an interesting experience--I am a Camp Council Representative and yesterday a rattler attended our meeting.

It was funny. They killed it, skinned it and some of the counselors had fried rattlesnake meat for lunch!

We went down to the archeological "dig" the other day. It's very exciting. There are Indian writings and drawings on the rock. We tried to interpret them. We could see deer, buffalo and a porcupine. Also, rain clouds and Indians on horses. The archeological consultant, Bert, says it must be from a ceremony asking for a good hunt. It's really interesting.

We also were assigned a 5' x 5' square of earth to dig in and given a large square frame of wire to sift the dirt. We found some bone chips, arrow-head chips and a buffalo tooth.

Neat, huh?

Today I went horseback riding. It was fun. I'd never been before. Those horses are huge! I can understand now how cowboy's legs are U-shaped in the movies. I'm sore but had a great time. The scenery you could see from the trail was even more beautiful than down in the canyon. We rode for approximately 3 hours, all over the camp. I could see the stream, the canyon, the distant plateaus and then, scattered here and there, millions and millions of Girl Scouts. It's a wonderful feeling.

The weather here is slightly varied. Usually it is boiling hot--over 100 or so, until about 6:00 when the wind starts up. Some nights the wind is strong - it knocked down two tents a few days ago. However, today, it hasn't even begun to blow a gentle breeze! The heat is very different from in Mass.; it's hot and dry, rather than sticky. One Lowell girl with us, Frannie Crayton, carries a little black umbrella wherever she goes! It's hilarious. The dust is bad sometimes, when there's a strong wind. Usually it's not too bad though.

I slept under the stars the other night and it was terrific. The sky was beautiful--jet black, dotted with trillions of stars. I saw four shooting stars! We could pick out several constellations and I saw the Milky Way clearly.

Tomorrow we're going back-packing for an over-night, borrowing packs from the California girls. We didn't bring equipment as we hadn't planned to back-pack. Now that we've seen the

Computerized Police Network For Bay State

Commissioner of Public Safety Leo L. Laughlin announced this week the signing of a contract with the Burroughs Corporation, the first step in the development of a statewide computerized communication and information network to link law enforcement agencies.

Massachusetts will be the first of the New England states to provide its law enforcement agencies with the most modern communications and information system in the continuing fight against crime in our Commonwealth.

The computer, which will be the technological heart of the communications and information system, will take over the task which over the years was a manual and extremely slow process of disseminating information and providing communications for the law enforcement agencies of the state.

The Teleprocessing System will link all police and related agencies together in a vast, high speed network of police information and communications. At the outset of this program (90) municipal police departments and (31) State Police barracks will participate. Financial assistance will be available, in part, by funds from the Omnibus Crime Control Bill through the Governor's Committee on Law Enforcement. The goal is to install a terminal in every municipality with a population of 5,000 that will be "on-line" to the computer. The system will provide police with instantaneous response to police inquiries, and unparalleled speeds of communications.

Stolen cars, missing or wanted persons, lost or stolen property, lost or stolen securities, stolen guns, outstanding warrants, narcotic drug information, and other police information will be stored in the computerized system, providing police with an inquiry ability of milli-seconds in response time.

In addition, all law enforcement departments in the Commonwealth will be provided with the capability of entering information and inquiring directly into the files of the National Crime Information Center in Washington.

The male of the human species has been removing his whiskers in one way or another since the dawn of modern history. However, shaving by women was relatively uncommon until the years following World War I. This was the time when the 19th (women's suffrage) Amendment had ushered in a new era of styles and behavior for the gentler sex. More and more women in the United States, at least -- came to accept the removal of leg and underarm hair as a regular part of good grooming. Today most American women consider the absence of underarm hair and leg hair to be essential to good personal grooming.

Mrs. Clifford A. H. Pike

Pike - Geoghegan

The marriage of Miss Nancy Jane Geoghegan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Geoghegan of Lawrenceburg, Kentucky, to Mr. Clifford A. H. Pike, son of the Rev. and Mrs. J. Edison Pike of Andover, was solemnized at the First Christian Church in Lawrenceburg on Saturday, August 16, at 4:30 o'clock.

Rev. Mr. Pike, assisted by the Rev. Jack Ervin, officiated at the double ring ceremony, before an altar formed of baskets of white flowers, Woodard fern, smilax and wedding tapers in candelabra. Small bouquets of flowers were used on the pews.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Jerry Carlton, organist and Mrs. Philip Roddy, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of ivory peau de soie, fashioned in Empire design. The bodice of Alencon lace was embroidered on English net and the elbow length sleeves were accented with a deep ruffle of lace. The full chapel length train was attached to the low neckline with small peau de soie bows with pearl accents. The skirt was A-line.

Her long heirloom veil was of rose point applique Brussels lace, draped from a miniature Spanish tiara, starred with crystal design. Her veil belonged to her maternal great aunt, Mrs. Jerome Robinson, and she is the fourth member of the family to wear it.

Her only jewelry was a pin and bracelet of garnets and pearls in hand wrought gold, a gift of her great great grandfather to his wife in 1858 on their wedding day.

Miss Nell Ballard Gorham was maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown of pale pink silk with a high-rise waistline and v-neckline. A ruffle extended from the neckline to the floor in the back. She wore a matching Juliet cap of pearl embroidered shell shaped loops. She carried a Victorian Colonial bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, miniature carnations and podicarpus foliage.

Miss Mary Ann Shely, Mrs. Da Wright, Mrs. John Ryan, Miss Betsy Pike and Miss Margaret Pike, sisters of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. Their gowns were identical to that of the honor attendant, in azalea pink. They wore matching Juliet caps and carried Colonial bouquets of roses, miniature carnations and foliage.

Mr. J. Edison Pike, of Chicago, Ill., served his brother as best man. The groomsmen were George Geoghegan, III, brother of the bride; Pritchard Strong, Sr., tauket, New York; James W. Higgins, Jr., Oaklawn, Ill.; Robert Welsh and Gary Ramsey of Lexington, Ky.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents at 105 Elm St.

The bride's table, covered with a white embroidered cloth, held the four tiered wedding cake, topped with pink and white sweetheart roses, an arrangement of sweetheart roses, stephanotis and smilax, the silver punch bowl and wedding tapers in silver holders.

Another table in the yard held a punch bowl, and an arrangement of pink and white flowers. Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. David Trammontin, Mrs. Jerry Crawford, Miss Pat Elliott, and Miss Virginia Fielder. Miss Jane Wilson Brown was in charge of the guest book.

The couple left on a wedding trip to New England and afterwards will be at home at 3106 Valley Drive, Building 202, Alexandria, Va.

The bride is a graduate of Transylvania University, Lexington, Ky., with a B.A. degree in social work and has held a position as a social worker in Mercer, Lincoln, Boyle and Garrard counties for the past nine months. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

The bridegroom is also a graduate of Transylvania with a B.A. degree in social work and is now a student at the Virginia Episcopal Theological Seminary in Alexandria, Va. He is a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity.

KEEP OFF THE GRASS

By W. A. Leavell, Ph. D.

In an airlines magazine they tell about an interview with a scientist in which he said it is only a matter of time before people can travel from place to place by being broken up into electrochemical elements and transmitted by radio to their destination for subsequent reassembly.

You would be reduced to a code of dots and dashes on a tape. This tape would supposedly be fed into a transmitting machine and thus sent to the desired destination where the receiving machine would reassemble you into original form. What won't they come up with next. Just imagine being reduced to a bunch of dots and dashes on tape. Science seems to be a wonderful field. Somehow, I can't help but think this recent scientific prediction just might have hidden effects way beyond what the space age wonder boys figure on.

No doubt the transportation advantages will be tremendous. Such speed, the total convenience and probable savings could make travel to the far corners of the world simpler than a taxi ride to the airport and less dangerous.

One disturbing thing does come to mind. Having some experience with modern equipment, I know that mistakes can and do happen. If you punch the wrong key, skip a line or have a power failure, you can make the best machine look sick.

Lets just suppose one of our fine politicians decides to take a little trip. He goes down to the people transmitting service and gets his ticket. The engineer on duty breaks him up into dots and dashes and puts him on tape. If it was a bad day for the engineer when he punched the control buttons, the politician might get on the tape wrong. He might come out honest and his career would be ruined. He might even come out smart and that could hurt our whole system. Think how bad this would make our other elected officials look.

This predicted scientific achievement could be a good thing. We could put all the unemployed on tape and just store them until a job came along. In peace time we could even put the armed forces on tape and reassemble them only when they were needed. As a matter of fact, it might not be such a bad idea to have some of my outlaw relatives put on tape for a long, long time. This was just a thought but still . . .

What would happen if some adventurous type decided to play around with the dots and dashes and do a little tape splicing? You might be able to feed in a rather plain mousey type lady friend a little change in code here, a bit of tape splicing there and out comes the "38", "23", "36" dream girl. Who said you couldn't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear? I wonder what the other girl would think -- the one who had her good points robbed. She went in looking like Miss America and came out flat chested, stringy haired and looking like she slept in her clothes. What a shock that would be.

This new marvel of science could also lead to other complications. What would keep one of our high type politicians from bribing the engineer to send his opponent to the dead tape office instead of his next speaking engagement?

The more I think about this new travel arrangement the more I view such progress with mixed emotions. I don't think I will be using this type transportation. My wife says she loves me dearly but why take chances?

Besides, why expose my wonderful talent and personal charm to possible theft? The temptation might be too much.

Mail Items Need Not Be Returned

Dermot P. Shea, executive secretary of the state Consumers' Council has issued a consumer advisory bulletin stating that effective Aug. 8, a consumer who receives in the mail unordered goods, wares or merchandise shall be entitled to dispose or use the same without obligation to the sender.

The Consumers' Council first sponsored such legislation in 1967. It was not passed until this session of the legislature. The bill, filed by several Representatives was supported by the Council.

The consumer has been regularly besieged by a volume of unrequested, unsolicited merchandise of various kinds. The current law imposed a burden on the recipient to either, (1) purchase the item(s), (2) return same at some inconvenience and/or expense, (3) store the merchandise for future pickup. Since the goods were not requested in the first place the failure to return the goods usually resulted in the recipient being billed and dunned for payment and sometimes an unfavorable report to a Credit Bureau which might impair the recipients' credit.

The new law will strengthen the existing common law on contracts by putting mail order companies "on notice" that recovery of the merchandise or payment therefor will be barred to the firms sending the unordered merchandise by providing a complete statutory defense to the consumer receiving such unsolicited goods.

MISS HARRISON

Miss Marjorie Cushing Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Harrison, 210 South Main St., was one of 90 young women who graduated Aug. 15 from the Department of Nursing, Faculty of Medicine, Columbia University, N. Y.

Miss Harrison was graduated from Briarcliff College before matriculating at Columbia's School of Nursing. She will marry Richard E. Fleming, Jr. in Andover on Aug. 30, and will join the Visiting Nurse Service of New York in Mott Haven, N. Y.

Fatality Driver Fined $200

A Reading motorist was fined $200 in Lawrence District court Monday on a complaint of driving to endanger growing out of the death of a girl pedestrian in Shawsheen Square on July 3.

The defendant, Mrs. Mae M. Pitman, 69, 144 Haverhill St., Reading pleaded not guilty to the complaint.

The victim was Miss Caroline Roy, 20, 47 Inman St., Lawrence. Miss Roy and a companion, Carol Chasse, 49 Brookfield St., Lawrence, were walking in front of the DASA building when Mrs. Pitman's car mounted the sidewalk and struck them. Miss Roy was pinned against the building.

Mrs. Pitman had as a passenger Mrs. Alice R. Shoules, 86, of the same Reading address, when the accident occurred. She told the court that she experienced trouble with the accelerator while coming to a stop behind traffic in Shawsheen Square.
